TOPICAL JOKES

TOYS R US – A mother in Fort Meyers, Florida has filed a petition to have “Breaking Bad” action figures pulled from Toys R Us because they glorify drug use. C’mon it’s not like Toys R Us is selling actual crystal meth, I mean everyone knows that in Fort Meyers the crystal is sold behind the Toys R Us.

RWANDA SCREENING – Rwanda is now screening all incoming passengers from the United States for Ebola. These passengers must call a phone number and report how they’re feeling each day for the duration of their stay. Time to make a classic Wilmore prank call. Okay here we go, Rwanda’s country code is +250 and it’s ringing. “Hey, umm yeah, just calling to report my health, I am feeling A-Ok, yeah, it’s an American expression. No Ebola to report.” (quickly hangs up) I’m terrible at prank calls.

WILL.I.AM WATCH - Will.i.am, AKA Bill, has designed a smartwatch called the PULS that is expected to hit stores in time for the holiday season. The smartwatch is so smart that as soon as you put it on, it sends you an alert to stop buying smartwatches designed by Will.i.am.

PUMPKIN FESTIVAL – Police in Keene, New Hampshire had to use tear gas and pepper spray after a crowd at the 24th annual pumpkin festival got out of control. People at the festival started rioting when... (flips through script to find reason) after umm, the pumpkins raped a dude? Anyway, the reason I bring up this riot, is that the majority of people rioting were WHITE!! – Finally, some white people rioting, taking the heat off of us for a while, that’s what I like to see, (Larry starts to celebrate wildly, some other Minority staffers come out and start to celebrate too, until eventually they appear to be rioting) Dammit, everyone stop!! We were rioting. I see how easy it is now.

HITLER METH – In more meth news, newly released wartime documents that include the diary of Adolf Hitler’s physician, reveal that Hitler was prescribed, and addicted to Crystal Meth. Aaaaah, well that explains it!

DUTCH BIKERS - Three members of a Dutch chapter of the motorcycle club “No Surrender” picked up some AK-47s and joined the Kurdish forces in their fight against ISIS. Wait, are you trying to tell me these bikers weren’t seeing enough action as members of a motorcycle club in the Netherlands? That’s hard to believe.

MITT ROMNEY – Mitt Romney continues to poll very well as a prospective Presidential candidate for the Republican party, but he insists he is not going to run again, at least not before talking to his wife Anne, and his kids, Tagg, Matthew, Josh, Ben and Craig... and he also wants to check with his twenty-two grandkids: Keiran, Delvin, Tab, Timothy, Grace, Helen, Gorg, Hamlock, Chant, Michael, Willoughby, Brody and Lexi, they’re twins, Vera, Jarr, ZackZack, Chandler, Monica, umm, I don’t know, Baron, uh, Lurb, Klegg Romney, and last but definitely not least, Camp. Those are all their real names.

HUGE SPIDER – A Harvard Zoologist was taking a stroll through the rainforests of Guyana when he came across something called a Goliath birdeater spider, roughly the size of a puppy. The zoologist caught the spider to study it, and it is now living in a museum. Which museum? I don’t know, and that’s why I won’t be going to any museums for the rest of my life.

GOD SPEAKS THROUGH DUCK DYNASTY – A Texas State Senator named Dan Patrick, who is set to become the state’s Lieutenant Governor, said that God was speaking to us through Duck Dynasty’s vocally anti-gay patriarch Phil Robertson. Let’s do some logic jiu-jitsu here: If God is speaking through Phil Robertson, that makes him, in a way, God’s puppet, and most Christians believe that Jesus and God are synonymous, therefore if Phil Robertson is God’s puppet, that means Jesus’s hand is all up in Phil Robertson’s B-hole. Sounds pretty gay to me Phil...

HUNTER BIDEN - Trouble in paradise, Joe Biden’s son Hunter Biden says he is embarrassed after being discharged from the Navy Reserve for failing a drug test. The 44-year-old son of the VP tested positive for cocaine last year. But to be fair to Hunter, cocaine is on the family crest. (photoshop of crest with sunglasses, cocaine, chest hair, and a rack of ribs, with babes where the lions usually are).

OPIUM – Opium poppy cultivation is at an all time high in Afghanistan, with farmers growing 209,000 hectares of opium poppy in the past year. A senior U.S. official in Afghanistan, who wished to remain anonymous, is having a pretty easy time remaining anonymous, as he hasn’t left his apartment or even showered in months.

ELLO – There’s a new social networking site called Ello that is starting to gain traction. People claim they are moving over to Ello from facebook, because of facebook’s new policy requiring people to use their real name. I probably won’t move over to Ello right away, but I have a feeling my good friend “Terrance McBoobhands” might be. (show a photoshop of Terrance’s facebook page, it’s just Larry with sunglasses and his hands held out in a boob-grabbing fashion.) (ashamed) Actually, Terrance McBoobhands is my real name, Larry Wilmore is my stage name.

McDONALD'S – The McDonald's corporation recently reported a 30 percent fall in quarterly profits. I think it's safe to say these last 27 terms in office have been a complete disaster for Mayor McCheese.

HBO STREAMING – This is huge news, next year, HBO will be making their HBO GO service available to anyone with a high-speed internet connection, you will no longer have to have a cable or satellite subscription to get HBO GO. Finally, I'll be able to see nude people on the internet without having a cable subscription. -Finally I'll be able to watch "The Principal" starring James Belushi and Lou Gossett Jr. on my smartphone anytime I want. They still play that movie, frequently.

CLOONEY'S WEDDING – George Clooney has finally tied the knot, he got married in Venice, Italy to human rights lawyer Amal Alamuddin. The wedding was a star-studded affair, Matt Damon and Bill Murray were there... U2 Front man Bono was even there, but he showed up unexpectedly, they tried to have him removed, but nobody could figure out how to do it. (in reference to that U2 album popping up on people's playlists)

INHERENT RESOLVE - The United States fight against ISIS finally has a name, Pentagon officials have deemed it "Operation: Inherent Resolve." Narrowly beating out Operation Fiiiiine We'll Take Care Of It, Operation ISIS Fuck-it Challenge, and my personal favorite, Operation Schmooperation.

EBOLA RANT

I have some bad news folks, but a second person living in the United States has died of that little disease starting with an E. That's right, another person in New Hampshire has died of Eastern Equine Encephalitis. But nobody's freeeeeeeeakin' out about Triple E. Marco Rubio isn't proposing any travel restrictions to New Hampshire (though I wish to God he would). That's probably because Triple E is transmitted through mosquito bites, and you can't blame Obama for not having control over mosquitos. That's Biden's job, and up until now he's been on top of his mosquito game.

But there's just something about Ebola that is making people lose their shit, and not just because Ebola causes uncontrollable shitting. This kind of hysteria hasn't permeated our American psyche since that giant meteor of SPACE SNAKES came hurtling towards earth in '83... and again in 2004, it's every 21 years.

The hysteria's understandable though, dying from Ebola is a terrible terrible death. It makes regular death look like a super fun death. Yet, there is one aspect about Ebola that is great. Quarantine. Now I know a thing or two about quarantines. I was quarantined once a long time ago because doctors thought I was beginning to show the early warning signs of Hulkamania, so I have some do's and don't's for anyone who finds themselves quarantined with Ebola.

Do – You’re extremely ill, time to write letters to all those friends and family you’ve been neglecting. And in order to show them just how much they mean to you, you’ll probably want to sign the letters with blood. Then lick and seal them tight, and be sure to lick the entire outside of the envelope before mailing them.

Don’t - Don’t watch the 1995 medical disaster film “Outbreak” over and over; it’s a bad movie. Instead, I would go with Steven Soderbergh’s “Contagion” or Robert Wise’s classic “The Andromeda Strain.”

Do – This is a serious situation, so bring some much-needed levity to your quarantine by putting in a pair of zombie contact lenses and biting down on a blood capsule.

Don’t – And I can’t stress this enough, don’t overthink the ending of Gone Girl, I know it was ambiguous and upsetting to some, but let’s face it, marriage is a death sentence.

We should be taking Ebola seriously, just not this seriously. Here’s a little perspective to help. There are so many greater threats to people’s lives than Ebola. Like playing football, or being a lady who likes video games, or crossing the street. And there really isn’t much time for Ebola to become a serious threat to the United States anyway. What is it... only 11 years until 2025 when the SPACE SNAKES COME BACK?!?! 11 Years! We don’t have time to worry about potentially a few hundred Ebola deaths when real space snakes RIGHT NOW are hurtling towards us. You think Dallas dropped the ball on Ebola, Dallas is completely unprepared for space snakes. So, forget about Ebola. Let’s get ready for 2025. And this has been, The WilMORE You Know. (PSA Graphic)

SEGMENT IDEAS

IT’S THE BEST(iality) REPORT!

Here at the Minority Report we feel it is our duty to keep our audience up to date on the ever-changing landscape of bestiality laws throughout the world. And unfortunately, today, I have to be the one to break it to you... Denmark is moving to ban bestiality... (looks at audience) No boos huh? I’m not going to lie, I was expecting waaay more boos from this audience.

A recent Gallup poll revealed that 76 percent of Danes are in favor of banning sex with animals, and a recent gallop poll revealed that 50 percent of 100 percent of centaurs are also for the ban.

The Danish Minister of Food and Agriculture, Dan “I’ve-never-ever-fucked-a-goat-not even-in-university” Jorgensen has decided to add an amendment to the Animal Welfare act that would specifically state that intercourse with animals would be illegal. But the president of the animal ethics committee Bengt Holst says the added amendment is unnecessary. That’s classic Bengt Holst.

Several neighboring countries in Europe recently banned the act, which lead to an increase in underground animal sex tourism in Denmark. You can always tell who the people at the airport are who are about to launch a worldwide underground animal sex tour. They're usually the ones with the scratch marks, peanut butter, and horse condoms.

Jorgensen said, the most important factor in his decision "is that in the vast majority of the cases, it is an attack against the animal...they naturally cannot say no to going along with it." Oh is that right Mr. Jorgensen? Then explain this. (Two links below of cats saying "no")

-A Cat saying "No no no no no." <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kxRX6LXDpWs>

-And another cat saying "No." <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PM5BCjNswd0>

That's too bad, that is one sexy cat. However, some other animals seem more than willing.

-Lamb saying "Yeah". <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=gmlR5eG9zP4>

But what laws are there to protect us humans when the animal wants it and we don't, and then this happens... (My favorite pic)

A NOT SO FRIENDLY REMINDER – 24 hour news and their audiences move from outrage to outrage, forgetting about the last outrage as soon as a new outrage surfaces. The injustice of the Boko Haram kidnappings were replaced by the injustice of Malaysia Airlines flight MH17 being shot down, and that story disappeared as soon as a case of ISIS flared up in the Middle East. This would be a segment highlighting a topic that the 24-hour news stations totally fucking forgot about. Remember those girls in Nigeria that got kidnapped? Oh you do? Because for a while there it seemed like you totally fucking forgot about them.

APOLOGY ACCEPTED – At least once a week someone from pop culture or within the political sphere is forced to apologize for his or her transgression of the moment. A lot of times these apologies fall on deaf ears, but at Minority Report, we're listening. After a public apology, Larry decides to be the only one to go on record and accept the apology on behalf of America and sometimes the world. For instance, just this week the Dallas hospital where two nurses contracted Ebola took out a full-page ad in two local newspapers apologizing for the "mistakes" they made during treatment. It's absurd that people are forced to apologize and even more absurd that these apologizers believe it actually helps them save face.

REMOTE IDEAS

ORGANIZATION NATION – This nation has many famous organizations that are well known to everyone: the NRA, PETA, Greenpeace. These groups make enough money from donations to get a seat at the political table. But for every famous organization there are 50 not-so-famous groups and associations that barely scrape by.

e.g. The Aaron Burr Association (Dues are 25 Dollars a Year), The Association for Dressings and Sauces, International Association for Youth Hypnotists, Toastmasters International, Paranormal Community Against Bullying, etc.

Larry goes and visits with members of these small organizations to see what they're all about, and to give his audience an honest look at these micro subsets of America. Preferably visiting them when they have their annual meeting or awards banquet. Then at the end he tells a huge national audience how they can donate to the audience.

THE BEST OF THE WORST – Much like the above, Larry visits with members of different hate groups from around the nation. The Southern Poverty Law Center website has a list of hate groups divided up by state. There are quite a few. My personal favorites are the ones listed as "General Hate." Perhaps this could be turned into a tournament of hate to see who the least hateful group is of all the hate groups in the hateful ole US of A. The bracket could be called, March Actual Madness, or The March Mad, or the Mad Marchers, or The Hateful Eight unofficially brought to you by Quentin Tarantino's The Hateful Eight.

If you've made it this far, I thank you very much for reading.
